NOTE.—Abnormal increases of population of 1918 over that of 1903 were due to annexation of barrios or municipalities to larger and contiguous municipalities, and migration of population to municipalities having sugar centrals, becoming important railroad stations, or attaining commercial importance.

The above figures do not include non-Christian population, and are subject to correction in a subsequent issue.

^a From the Philippine Health Service.^b From the Bureau of Customs.^c From the census of the corresponding year.^d From July 1, 1913 to December 31, 1914.^e Prof. Beyer's estimate; from 1904 to 1914, the population figures are equalized based on increase of 1915 over 1903 population, and from 1916 to 1919 based on increase of 1918 over 1915 population.^f Data for the Department of Mindanao and Sulu not yet available.^g Based on the increase of 1918 over 1903; preliminary only. All computations based on this figure are subject to alteration in subsequent issues.

NOTE.—Reports on births and deaths from the provinces being incomplete the internal increase or decrease appearing in the third column is naturally lesser than the actual number. For this reason an equalized population, which is used as the basis of all the per capita figures in this Bulletin, is computed.

^a The standard abaca (Manila hemp) grades (See Act No. 2380) are divided into five groups, according to the cleaning of the fiber, as follows:

GROUP I includes grades A to S-3, inclusive. This group embraces fiber of excellent cleaning, which can be strictly termed as pure fiber, although it has a tendency of being sometimes slightly strippy in the grades E, S-2 and S-3.

GROUP II includes grades F to H, inclusive. This group embraces fiber of good cleaning, which is slightly strippy, but which for all practical purposes, can be used as pure fiber.

GROUP III includes grades I to K, inclusive. This group embraces fiber of fair cleaning, and which is distinctly strippy and consequently of a harsh texture and "bold" size.

GROUP IV includes L to M, inclusive. This group embraces fiber of coarse cleaning, or coarse strips.

GROUP V includes grades DL to Y, inclusive. This group embraces woody fiber (DL and DM), waste fiber (O, OO, and T), or damaged fiber (Y).

^b "Daet coarse" included.

^a For sources of the total values, and quantities in metric tons in this statement, see note in Table No. 59, page 125.

^b 1 metric ton is equivalent to 1,000 kilos; one cavan weighs approximately 57.5 kilos.

^c 468 piculs of arroz encarnado imported from China reduced at 63.25 kilos a picul.

^d Values are expressed in escudos; one escudo is equivalent to ten reales of ten decimas each.

^e From August to December only.

^f From January 1 to June 30, only. Figures for 1920 are subject to alteration in a later issue.

NOTE.—For sources of the statistical data in this statement, see note in Table No. 82-A, page 221.

The standard grades of maguey and sisal are divided into two groups: Group I includes all fiber cleaned by retting the leaves in water, and Group II includes all fiber cleaned by knife or machine. The fiber in Group I is distinguished by its softness, lack of luster and marked deficiency in the tensile strength and the presence, in most cases, of gummy scales. This group embraces maguey No. 1 to No. 3, and maguey D.

Group II embraces fiber A, or good; fiber B, or fair; and fiber C, or common. This group is superior to Group I in luster and strength of the fiber, its harsher texture, and freedom from scales.

^b July 1 to December 31.

NOTE.—First-class roads: Well graded and surfaced, thoroughly drained and constantly maintained. Bridges and culverts are usually complete and permanent, and are continuously passable at all times with possible exception during typhoon periods.

Second-class roads: Fairly graded, partially or naturally surfaced, and generally intermittently maintained. Bridges and culverts are usually complete but, in part, are temporary structures. These roads are continuously passable for vehicle traffic during the dry season, but more or less impassable during the rainy season.

Third-class roads: These roads are usually narrow, poorly graded, and generally impassable in the rainy season.

^a The Director of Weather Bureau, Rev. José Algue, classifies climatic conditions in the Philippine Islands which, he states, are controlled by the distribution of rainfall into three types, viz., first, second, and third types.

The regions which enjoy the climatic conditions of the first type are:

The southeast end of Luzon or the provinces of Albay and Sorsogon.

The Province of Ambos Camarines and adjacent islands.

The Island of Catanduanes.

The eastern coast of Luzon from the seashore to the range of mountains in the Province of Tayabas, eastern Isabela, and the eastern Cagayan.

The northern and eastern coast of Samar and adjacent islands.

The San Bernardino Strait and adjacent islands.

The eastern coast of Leyte and adjacent islands.

Dinagat and Siargao and adjacent islands.

The small islands on the interisland sea between Panay and Luzon east of longitude 122 degrees east (South of parallel 10 degrees north).

The peninsula of Surigao to the mouth of Agusan River.

The eastern coast of Mindanao and the great valley of the Agusan River.

On the northern coast of Mindanao, the most northern parts of Misamis Province, and adjacent islands.

All these regions are easily accessible to wet currents direct from the Pacific.

^a Census of the Philippine Islands: 1918.

^b Census of the Philippine Islands: 1903.

^c Estimated based on the increase of 1915 over the 1903 population.

^d Estimate of H. Otley Beyer, Asst. Prof. of Anthropology, University of the Philippines, and curator, Bureau of Science.

^e Estimated based on the increase of 1918 over the 1915 population.

^f Estimated based on the increase of 1918 over the 1903 population. This population is preliminary only, and is subject to correction in subsequent issues. All computations based on this figure are also preliminary and therefore subject to correction.

^g The uncivilized population of the Islands (647,740) which is not classified in the census is here classified at the ratio of one male to one female. The result is added, respectively, to the male and female civilized population during the year.

^h Estimated based on the ratio of male to female population in 1903.

ⁱ Estimated based on the ratio of male to female population in 1918.

^j The census reports were incomplete. The rate obtained is for nine provinces only.

^k Includes teachers in the private schools.

^l The Census of 1918 gives the area cultivated as 2,415,778 hectares or 537,323 less than the acreage given by the Bureau of Agriculture. The difference is explained by the fact that the crops rotated in a land are reported separately, hence the area of the land thus used is added as many times as there are crops rotated.

^m The data on naguey are evidently included with those of abaca (Manila hemp), as provinces not producing abaca are reported therein as producers.

ⁿ Average retail price in the markets of the city of Manila.

^o Areas from 1910 to 1919 represent the area cultivated under the nine principal crops only.
